When the coal men ask [illegible] cars they receive sometimes one or [illegible]. The heaviest dealers say un[illegible] orders are coming in from the city [illegible] and they could clean out their stocks in [illegible] if they filled all orders. The price of soft [illegible] is a dollar a ton to-day and hard coal [illegible] by land or water could [illegible] the freight blockade which extends almost [illegible] distance from here to seaward on all lines [illegible], and does not give much hope of [illegible] from the present dilemma.

The amount of the circulation in this country in denominations of $5 and under was $114,320,33 on Nov 1 1880.

In the foreign countries named the large amount of silver and gold coin of lower denominations enters into general circulation. It will be impossible to keep in circulation any larger amount of small gold coins or silver dollars unless the coinage of the latter is restricted and small notes withdrawn.

The total amount of United States bonds held as security for circulating notes on the 1st of November 1880 was $357,748,959. On October 1 1865 the total amount of bonds held for this purpose was $276,250,350 of which $199,397,930 was in 6 per cents and $76,857,600 in 5 per cents. On October 1 1870 the banks held $216,601,300 6 per cents and $93,942,660 5 per cents. Since that time there has been to November 1 1879 a decrease of $185,311,550 in 6 per cent bonds and an increase of $51,137,400 in 5 per cents. The banks now hold $35,083,950 4½ per cents which have been deposited since September 1 1876 and $120,071,100 4 per cents which have been deposited since July 1 1877. During the year $19,245,300 4 per cents have been withdrawn chiefly for the purpose of realizing the large premium on these bonds and $29,370,750 5 per cents deposited which will mature in a few months. The banks still hold $8000 of six per cent five twenty bonds and $526,900 of five per cent ten-forty bonds upon which interest has ceased. They also hold $115,[illegible]850 of 6s of '81 which are redeemable the 1st of next May and $1,046,000 6s of '81 payable the 1st of January next, and $50,432,150 6s of '81 which are redeemable the 1st of July next.

The total estimated amount of coin and bullion in the country Nov 1st $612,281,157, of which $454,012,030 was gold, and $158,271,327 of silver. The amount of gold and silver and per cent of each held by the U. S. treasury Nov 1 1880 was as follows: Standard dollars, $47,084,454; other coin and bullion, $30,673,857; total silver, $77,757,311; gold coin and bullion, $218,453,269; per cent of silver, 35.0; per cent of gold, 64.4.

Statistics show a rapid reduction during the last two years in the amount of outstanding circulation of banks which have ceased to do business and indicate that the final loss upon notes of the national banks will not exceed one or one and one-half per cent.

BUSINESS

Clearing House Transactions for the Past Week Compared with those of a Corresponding Week last year.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Nov 24.—The Public's table of clearing house transactions for the week shows the following gains and losses over the corresponding week last year: Losses, New York 7.9 per cent, Boston 3.3, Philadelphia 17.3, San Francisco 16.5; Baltimore 3. Gains, Chicago 34.4, Cincinnati 28.5, St. Louis 15.6, New Orleans 11, Milwaukee 28.8, Louisville 31.8, Pittsburg 35.5, Providence 1.8, Kansas City 41.8, Indianapolis 3.3, Cleveland 3, New Haven 59, Lowell 12.5, Syracuse 40.7. The total transactions at all clearing houses this week were $1,144,000,000 against $1,2[illegible]000,000 for the same week last year, being a loss of 3.4 per cent. The fact that five of the larger cities report smaller exchanges than they did last year at this time should be neither disregarded nor misinterpreted. There is danger that it may be deemed more important than it really is, because the portion of the exchanges in New York which may be considered not due to stock operations is as large as it was for the corresponding week last year, but the decline at Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore is nevertheless too significant to be overlooked, as it is never possible to ascertain with exactness the proportion of exchanges here which is due to dealing in stocks and bonds. The returns from other cities of large traffic in any case of doubt are usually a better indication of a tendency in general business. It happens however that the tremendous speculation which collapsed at this time last year was active in the cities named and in hundreds of towns which deal through them as monetary centers, and may have been sufficiently important there to affect exchanges. At every other place with the usual exception of San Francisco the exchanges this year show an increase and at most of them a large increase. It is not easy to believe that a sudden contraction or expansion in the legitimate business of the three largest cities and Baltimore could occur without a corresponding change in some of the minor towns and the natural conclusion therefore is that the great speculative transactions in stocks and bonds inflated exchanges last year at Boston and Philadelphia as well as here while the volume of other business continues much greater throughout the country than it was then. Dealings in grain were unusually large last week at Chicago, Milwaukee and New York and probably affected exchanges perceptibly, yet the volume of business at all the small cities is so great even in comparison with a week of remarkably active trade last year that the general prosperity in all parts of the country except on the Pacific coast is evident.

The Irish Bishops and the League

ROME, Nov 24.—The Aurora publishes an article believed to be inspired and which attracts considerable attention. It says the Irish bishops could never preach revolt, crime or violence and will not do so. The pope does not need to use any great efforts to keep them in the path of duty, but he may possibly have already advised them to separate themselves openly from those who spread terror by brandishing the sword in the faces of their fellow-citizens. The article concludes: We trust that the Irish clergy will be an instrument of peace and order and that while they strive to calm the passions of the people the English nation will settle the questions at issue by drawing closer the bonds which should unite the two sister countries.

A Growing Cause.

A Limerick correspondent telegraphs that the land league is assuming proportions little dreamed of when it started. Leaders in Limerick have developed a new course which strikes at the very root of the legal system. Not content with preventing tenants from paying more than the government valuation and preventing other tenants from taking their farms from which one of their number has been evicted, the league is now about to boycott local attorneys to keep them from serving ejectment processes in the county courts. An eminent local solicitor a few days ago was accosted by a prominent member of the central land league who brought him to book for daring to serve eject ment notices for his clients. The representative of the land league informed him that his case would be brought before that body at the next meeting and warned him and his brethren of the consequences of what they were doing.

Defending the Landlords

CHICAGO, Nov 24.—The Inter-Ocean's special from Dublin says it is stated the Irish executive intends to station a military force permanently at Claremorris and also increase the garrison at Castlebar so it will be easy to send troops from these two centers to any part of West Ireland.

Fears of being Boycotted.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The [illegible] several state capitals and [illegible] Washington in December [illegible] Congress [illegible] the [illegible].

General Butler has [illegible] that [illegible] was [illegible] democratic defeat and that [illegible] But Butler's efforts in the same direction has not been successful enough to make him an authority on this.

It is believed that the largest majority ever given to a local candidate for any office was that received by Judge Finletter, republican candidate for the judgeship of the common pleas at Philadelphia, in the election held on the 2d of November. His majority was 172,368. The vote against him was only scattering.

Senator Thurman is the latest addition to the rapidly lengthening list of statesmen who since November 2d have discovered the charm that lies in private life. He says he is getting old, needs rest and [illegible] anticipates his retirement from public life with much pleasure. He has a high opinion of Garfield and thinks he will aim at an honest, able administration.

Solon Robinson, for many years agricultural editor of the New York Tribune, and who recently died in Florida, was many years since a citizen of Indiana. He resided at Crown Point, and was, we believe, clerk of Lake county. He was an excellent [illegible] farmer and exactly the man to tell Greeley what he knew about farming. His great strike for immortality was [illegible] of which twenty seven years ago fifty thousand copies were sold.

The New Orleans Picayune says the south is not going to encourage the democratic bluff game of fraud. For it says the fact is as certain as fate itself that the northern democracy at the last pinch would not resist the moral pressure which would be used to back it down. And therefore Garfield's inauguration will take place without either bluster or debate or dim forms. In no event will the south be committed to the fortunes of the northern democracy in such an experiment as the bluff game implies. All of which indicates that the south has learned the northern democracy very thoroughly.

The churches of New York are protesting against the production of Mr. Salmi Morse's Passion Play at one of the theaters there and it is evident that if the representation is given it will provoke a storm of censure and criticism. The instinct of the churches in this case is probably sound enough. The production of such a play at a modern theater no matter with what pretense of solemnity and reverence must tend to the evolution of that familiarity which breeds contempt. The period is not favorable to experiments of this nature moreover. Religion has never had so much apathy and even open hostility to contend against and it cannot afford to bring its sacred arcana into the vulgar glare of a theatrical spectacle.

A dispatch states that General Garfield is at Washington on a mission of peace between Secretary Sherman and Governor Foster who are contending for the Ohio senatorship. Sherman is said to be desirous of beating Foster because the latter was not true to his interests at the Chicago convention. Probably a better reason is that Sherman would like to be senator himself. Ohio might settle this dispute by allowing Foster to remain governor, requesting Garfield to keep Sherman in the treasury department and offering the senatorship to Hayes. While Ohio has any place to offer which befits the dignity of Rutherford B. Hayes she can do herself nothing but honor by conferring it upon him, but for the excellence of his administration the republican party will [illegible] have no places to give.

The Quality of Southern Toleration.

[From the Sherman (Texas) Courier.]

We are willing to let by-gones be by-gones with the northern people, and we will not proscribe a northern man who comes south and remains long enough to prove himself in full sympathy and accord with our people; but when he comes out for office against our boys and boasts in the stump that he has no regrets for his course in taking up arms against our people we think he should remain here a while longer until he gets better acquainted with the south and her people. He is [illegible] naturalized yet.

CONGRATULATORY.

We take much pleasure in congratulating our enterprising druggists Messrs. C. H. Woodard & Co. upon having secured the agency for Slaven's Famous Yosemite Cologne, Harmless Yosemite Face Powder and California Pine and Eucalyptus Porous Plasters. UNPLEASANT IF TRUE

An Old Time Ghost Story—Dean Stanley Tells it Over Again.

[From Fraser's Magazine.]

In the middle of the last century the chief of the Campbells of Inverawe had been given a [illegible] on the banks of the Awe [illegible] Campbell was left alone. He was roused by a violent knocking at the gate and was surprised at the appearance of one of his guests with torn garments and disheveled hair demanding admission. "I have killed a man and I am pursued by enemies. I beseech you to let me in. Swear upon your dirk—upon the cruachan—upon the hill where your dirk rests, swear by Ben Cruachan that you will not betray me." Campbell swore and placed the fugitive in a secret place in the house. Presently there was a second knocking at the gate. It was a party of his guests who said "Your cousin Donald has been killed. Where is the murderer?" At this announcement of Campbell remembered the great oath which he had sworn, gave an evasive answer and sent off the pursuers in a wrong direction. He then went to the fugitive and said "You have killed my cousin Donald. I cannot keep you here." The murderer appealed to his oath and permitted Campbell to let him stay for the night. Campbell did so and retired to rest. In the visions of that night the bloodstained Donald appeared to him with these words: "Inverawe, Inverawe, blood has been shed, shield not the murderer." In the morning Campbell went to his guest, and told him that any further shelter was impossible. He took him however to a cave in Ben Cruachan and there left him. The night again closed in and Campbell again slept and again the blood-stained Donald appeared. "Inverawe, Inverawe, blood has been shed, shield not the murderer." On the morning he went to the cave on the mountain and the murderer had fled. Again at night he slept, and again the blood-stained Donald rose before him and said "Inverawe, Inverawe, blood has been shed. We shall not meet again till we meet at Ticonderoga." He woke in the morning, and behold it was a dream. But the story of the triple apparition remained by him, and he often told it among his kinsmen, asking always what the ghost could mean by this mysterious word of their final rendezvous.

In 1758 there broke out the French and English war in America, which after many rebuffs ended in the conquest of Quebec by General Wolfe. Campbell of Inverawe, went out with the Black Watch, the 42d Highland regiment, afterward so famous. There on the eve of an engagement the general came to the officers and said: "We had better not tell Campbell the name of the fortress which we are to attack to-morrow. It is Ticonderoga. Let us call it Fort George." The assault took place in the morning. Campbell was mortally wounded. He sent for the general. These were his last words, "General, you have deceived me. I have seen him again. This is Ticonderoga."

Catarrhal DOSCH

Wol De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1 That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local and finally constitutional.

2. That being Constitutional the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.

3. That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.

4 That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea, Bronchitis, Leucorrhea, and Consumption.

5 That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations, and Insoluble Snuffs cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.

6 That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative affinity for, and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wol De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Some testimony:

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 25, 1880.

THANKSGIVING.

To the younger generation it may not be commonly known that the country has wandered widely from the general habits and opinions which gave rise to thanksgiving day. In its origin this festival, which our nation in all its allied parts, now observes more generally and more joyously than any other, except Christmas, was a purely religious act on the part of the New England Puritans. It was not an occasion for eating and drinking and jollification, but of devout reflection, of solemn preaching, of much prayer and self-humbling. The day partook quite as much of the gloomy side of religion as the hopeful side. There was as much contrition and chastisement of the worldly nature enjoined as there was of gratitude for past blessings or faith in the future. The fete was a product of that intimate association of church and state, that ideal of the commonwealth inspired and directed by the elect, taking its counsels from the word of God, and consulting heaven in prayer and meditation at every step, which was the characteristic of the early New England society.

Of all this there is very little trace left in the observance of the day, or in the habits of the people. Thanksgiving day has thrown off its austerity. No longer a day of fasting and mortification, it has become one of feasting and hilarity;—and this is far better as the principal feature of it is the cheerful family gathering. The day has lost its somberness, and with that, most of its old religious significance. Christmas was made a feast, which the Puritans disapproved, and they set up this day as an offset to it, and as a means of holding their minds to the severity of their customary religious gloom. From all this the character of thanksgiving day as an institution has now wholly changed. If the sermons of the present day have not become more rare than formerly, they have at least undergone a notable change of tone. During the anti-slavery agitation and the war times, the pulpit did indeed frequently lend itself on thanksgiving to political preaching, which sent the congregation home to their turkeys and their pumpkin pie with a comfortable glow of satisfaction that their private opinions (on whichever side they inclined) were in the line of the divine intentions, and enabled them to say grace over their bounties with a sense that their superior orthodoxy in matters of state was something to be thankful for. But there is very little politics served up with the religion of to-day, and it must be admitted that there is perhaps even less religion mixed with our politics. The Puritan arrangement of the state in the church is broken up and the ideal of direction by the elect is a mere historical memory. Under these circumstances the consideration of our causes of thankfulness is something which is likely to be left for the most part to a few ministers of the old fashioned kind, who will supplement the official proclamations with a more or less eloquent enumeration of our blessings. To the ordinary observer, the most obvious cause of grateful feeling will be the day itself—a day of rest thrown in between the days of work; a little feasting, let us hope in moderation, varying the monotony of hasty meals; a meeting of familiar faces about the table, at which some of them may be too often strangers; altogether, an unbending of the strained energies, a warming of the social and family feeling, a kindling of the sense of brotherhood.

These are enough for thankfulness or for that quiet pleasure which is as near as average humanity comes to conscious gratitude, and to which we devote but a small part of our time. We often hear it said that our people have too few holidays. It is a favorite observation of tourists who have seen the outpouring of the people in European countries on fete days. But we suspect that Americans have about as many as they can make good use of. If they feel the need of more they will take them as occasion offers. The mere institution of festivals, without special and strong associations, would be idle. What to do with a day of complete leisure is not always an easy problem for us to solve. On Christmas there are the children and their pleasures; on New-Year's day there is the calling; on thanksgiving there is the dinner with as many family friends as possible. But the attempt to make decoration day a general holiday failed signally, not because the people were not interested in the occasion, but because there was no room for a new festival. The times have become too busy, and we all have too much to do. As for special fetes, such as the French government decreed for the celebration of the success of the exposition, and which was accepted by the people with unexampled enthusiasm, it would be useless to try an experiment of that kind with the busy, absorbed and restless people of the United States. The increase of the number of our festivals will come gradually as we are fitted for them. Meanwhile, it is to be desired that we should make a wholesome use of what we have. If, in addition to the purely festive thoughts to which to-day gives rise, any of our readers care to review the events of the year in our public life, we doubt not that even the most pessimistic and cynical will see some cause for gratitude. We have had no war with other nations, and better still, there has been no internecine conflict to bring to our firesides the unspeakable desolation with which we were so sadly familiar a few years since. Our political contest, to which many looked forward with much apprehension, is settled so decisively that there can be no possible question or disturbance over it. And in material prosperity we have had remarkable growth, which will be continued as we continue to deserve it.

H. W. F.

THE OFFICIAL VOTE.

We publish to-day the full official vote of the state. The total is nearly 41,000, and the average majority for the republican electors is 668. There never has been a doubt of a republican majority in the state, though for a week after the election there were persons who foolishly claimed it for Hancock. The legitimate republican majority in the state is not less than 1200. In one precinct in Multnomah fully 300 illegal votes were put in for the Hancock electors. The heavy rain which prevailed the whole day over all the western part of the state, where the republican majorities are, reduced the vote very considerably. A fair day and an honest election would have given the republicans the state by a majority not less than that of last June.

Only once has Oregon failed to go republican in a presidential election. That occasion was in 1868, when Seymour carried the state over Grant. In 1860 Lincoln got the vote of the state by a plurality only. In 1864 he had 1431 majority over McClellan. In 1868 Seymour had 164 over Grant. In 1872 Grant had a very large majority, as thousands of democrats refused to vote for Greeley. In 1876 Hayes had 1057 plurality, and a clear majority of 537 over all. The results of twenty years show that Oregon may fairly be called a republican state, though on a full vote it has usually been a close contest between the parties.

The steady increase of the vote of the state is a point of interest that may be noted here. In 1860 the total vote was 14,411. In 1864 it was 18,345; in 1868, 22,084; in 1872, 19,549; in 1876, 29,873; and in 1880, 40,800.

There is a sure republican majority in Oregon only when the hand of selfish and unscrupulous politicians is not manifest in the manipulation of the affairs of the party. This meddlesome interference has never failed to give the state to the democrats. If indulged in again it will very certainly result as heretofore. The history of Oregon politics is that the man who fights most and hardest for the supposed prizes is not the man who is most apt to get them. It is so certainly on the republican side.

"They also serve," says the poet, "who only stand and wait." Our aspiring politicians, if their eagerness would only let them see it could often serve themselves best in this way.

Pennsylvania papers are publishing a fac simile of the indentures of Simon Cameron to the printing business. The document shows that the now venerable Simon was bound as an apprentice to the printer's trade in the town of Northumberland, Pa., on the 14th May, 1816. A year after his master, one Andrew Kennedy, gave up business and Cameron went to Harrisburg and worked awhile, and afterwards to Washington. At Washington he worked as a compositor for ten dollars a week, and after a time returned to Harrisburg, where he was elected state printer for seven consecutive terms. During this time he published the Harrisburg Republican. This was the beginning of his political career, which has in every way been remarkable. In the Proof Sheet, a journal devoted to typographical art, a fac simile of Cameron's indentures appears, with a biographical article. Thurlow Weed is the only other printer now living of equal age and celebrity.

Barnum and his committee are innocent. They say so themselves. They had nothing to do with the Chinese letter. No. They are honest men, all. They cannot lie. They are severally owners of little hatchets, but they did not cut down the democratic cherrytree. Ben Butler did it. Sam Tilden did it. John Kelly did it. Bill English did it. Barnum was very efficient and very faithful. He says so, and if necessary he can hire Morey and Philp to swear to it. He did everything in the power of man—fixing up forgeries, paying perjurers, and even telegraphing Tony the whole work of the forgers' literary bureau, and urging him to keep his courage up. How could any man do more? Reason and justice will one day resume their sway, and then Barnum and Hewitt will get the credit now denied them.

It is extremely difficult to get an exact statement of the number of representatives elected to the next congress by the several parties. The number will, however, differ little, if any, from the following: Republicans, 147; democrats, 133; greenback republicans, 5; greenback democrats, 4; independent democrats, 4. This gives the straight republicans a bare majority in the house, and with the greenback republicans, five more than a quorum, or eleven majority. There is no doubt that they will have the organization of the house, and their majority will be increased by admission of many contestants, members counted out on the southern plan. If there were any way of doing justice in all the districts where republicans have been defeated by suppressing an honest expression, the republicans would probably have fifty majority in the house.

Lindsay, alias O'Brien, alias Barry, has been indicted for perjury in the Morey letter forgery case, and has responded in a plea of guilty. The real parties meriting punishment are not this obscure wretch Lindsay and the poor old epileptic Samuel S. Morey, but the political villains who invented the forgery, paid for it, telegraphed it all over the country, vouched for its genuineness, and paid witnesses to support it by swearing to lies. The actual criminals are men high up in the democratic party and in society, but whose proper place is in the penitentiary. The name of one of them—Barnum—came out here attached to many telegrams spreading the forgery and the testimony of his paid liars. It is wrong to punish the mere tools and instruments with severity and let the principals go free.

St. Louis is building great expectations on her future as a grain market, as 6,164,833 bushels were shipped thence down the river last year, and 12,538,801 during the first nine months of 1880. Five years ago large shipments down the Mississippi did not amount to much, but the business is now assuming great proportions, as, besides the three companies already engaged, the city has formed another with $800,000 capital, that is to employ seven steamboats and fifty barges, with a capacity of 50,000 bushels apiece. St. Louis is holding out her apron for the prairies to pour their corn and wheat into instead of Chicago. But she is undoubtedly doomed to disappointment, unless a decided change takes place in commercial conditions.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRIES!

PIONEER White Lead.

REASONS WHY IT SHOULD BE PREFERRED TO ALL OTHERS:

First—It is STRICTLY PURE. It is WHITER, is FINER GROUND, is FRESH, has BETTER COVERING POWER, is MORE DURABLE and is LOWER PRICED than any foreign or imported brands.

The IMPORTED LEADS are OLD, are DRY and HARD, COVERED WITH SKINS, The OIL IS SOAKED INTO THE WOOD, and a very LARGE QUANTITY OF OIL, which is HIGHER COST than the Lead, MUST BE ADDED to make them fit for use, and thus making it cost, at even market prices, at least 10 per cent. more than the PIONEER.

Second—The PIONEER LEAD is strictly a HOME MANUFACTURE. EVERY DOLLAR SPENT IN ITS MANUFACTURE IS DISTRIBUTED ON THIS COAST to the MINERS, SMELTERS and REFINERS, MECHANICS, FARMERS AND LABORERS.

The LEAD ORE is mined on this coast.

The PIG LEAD is smelted and refined on this coast.

The POTS, MACHINERY and other appliances are made on this coast.

The MECHANICS and LABORERS are our own population.

The SEED from which the OIL is extracted is GROWN on this coast.

The OIL is MANUFACTURED on this coast by the PACIFIC OIL WORKS, and of a quality superior to any made elsewhere. GUARANTEED PURE and FREE from ADULTERATION with cotton seed, mustard seed and Fish Oil, SO COMMON with ALL THE EASTERN OILS IMPORTED.

The manufacture of the PIONEER WHITE LEAD EMPLOYS constantly ONE HUNDRED MEN.

The manufacture of the Oil by the PACIFIC OIL WORKS EMPLOYS constantly FIFTY MEN.

THE MINING, SMELTING, REFINING, FOUNDRIES, MACHINE & IRON WORKS, POTTERIES, FARMERS and other dependencies, EMPLOY, in addition, an ARMY OF MEN, all CONSUMERS, contributing to each other's welfare.

The FOREIGN or IMPORTED BRANDS of Lead and Oil CONTRIBUTE NOTHING to the WELFARE or PROSPERITY of THIS COMMUNITY; on the contrary, the PATRONAGE OF THEM results in the RETIREMENT from the State of YOUR CAPITAL, and DEPRIVES THE MANY classes aforementioned of SUPPORT.

Every dollar spent for HOME MANUFACTURES, and one so essentially a home manufacture as the PIONEER WHITE LEAD, ADDS to the DEVELOPMENT and WEALTH of the COAST, and is a PUBLIC GOOD.

[illegible] MULTNOMAH COUNTY.—The case of [illegible] Multnomah county which has been on trial in the state circuit court for several days was concluded yesterday and submitted to the jury. After deliberating for some time the jury returned a verdict in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $ [illegible]. The suit was brought by Mr. [illegible] Hibble for injuries sustained by the plaintiff's daughter in falling through a bridge some time ago. The bridge in question is on one of the county roads leading from East Portland and is situated a short distance beyond the insane asylum. A broken plank in the bridge was allowed to remain without repair through inadvertence on the part of the road supervisor. While Mr. Hibble's daughter was crossing the bridge one day, the plank gave way, resulting in serious injuries to her. Suit for damages was next brought against the county in the sum of $10,000. The county authorities recognizing their liability in a certain extent offered to compromise with the plaintiff by paying the sum of $[illegible]. However Hibble determined to settle the matter in court as he felt certain that judgment for a larger amount would be obtained. The county was represented by District Attorney J. F. Caples and H. [illegible] Mulkey. Notwithstanding the testimony was quite favorable to the plaintiff's cause the case was so strongly and ably conducted by the district attorney that virtually a verdict was obtained in favor of the defendant. Much credit is certainly due Mr. Caples and his associate for the very vigorous defense made, the result of which has saved the taxpayers of Multnomah a large sum of money.

[illegible] SOCIABLE.—The lecture delivered last night at Masonic hall by Gen. Morrow, of Vancouver, was well attended. The subject chosen was "The Mexican War." As Gen. Morrow took an active and prominent part in that war, it is a subject with which he is personally and intimately acquainted. He handled the subject in a clear and in [illegible] manner, and the lecture throughout was very interesting. It was listened to with marked attention and frequently applauded. The lecture was given in aid of the relief fund of Geo. B. Wright Post, No. 1, G. A. R., and the proceeds are quite substantial. At the close of the lecture the large hall was cleared and dancing indulged in for several hours.

DR. LINDSLEY'S INDIAN REPORT.—The report of Dr. Lindsley on Alaskan Indian affairs, and his recommendations on the subject was presented to President Hayes during his stay here, and read by the executive with much interest. The views entertained by Dr. Lindsley and expressed in his report are identical with the view of the president as he gave utterance in his speech to the citizens of Forest Grove on the occasion of his visit to the Indian school in that place. The report has been forwarded from the executive mansion in pamphlet form and its substance will probably be embodied in the president's next message.

SKULL FRACTURED.—A day or two since, while Chin Wee, a member of the firm of Chang Wa [illegible], on Second street near Alder, was sitting at his door in the store a post which had been used to support the second floor during repairs to the front fell and struck him on the head. He was rendered insensible, and still remains in that condition. He is superstitious, refused to allow a physician to examine the wound. It is certain that his skull is fractured. Inflammation has set in, and it is likely the injury will prove fatal.

NO APPROPRIATION MADE.—Contrary to the usual custom, the last session of the legislative assembly of this state made no appropriations for the care of the non-resident poor of the various counties during the ensuing two years. This will entail an additional expense on those counties which in their charity provide for this class of paupers, without recourse to the state treasury, until further provision is made for that class of service by future legislation.

[illegible] Los.—Mr. Joseph Oppenheimer brought into our office yesterday Lot, chief of the Spokane and Colville Indians, and Sam, of the same tribe. They were shown the composing department, then ascended via elevator to the press room, where the presses and the folder do the large and amazing work of this office. Lot and Sam have gone to Forest Grove to see their children, and came away pleased with the institution.

[illegible] TEMPLARS.—W. R. Dunbar, P. G. W. C. T., of the grand lodge I. O. G. T. of Oregon, is traveling in the interests of that order. He arrived in Portland Tuesday evening, and last evening officially visited Nonpareil Lodge No. 26. Mr. Dunbar will probably also be present and assist at the organization of the county lodge at Mount Tabor, next Saturday.

JAIL BIRDS.—Two Chinese prisoners who were confined in the jail at Oregon City, on a charge of burglary, broke jail last evening and made their escape. It is supposed they escaped hither for this city and Chief Luttrell was notified of it. "Lapp" will give them a warm reception if they come to Portland.

[illegible] MEETING.—The board of managers of the state agricultural society will meet at the secretary's office in Salem on Tuesday, Dec. 7th, at [illegible] for the purpose of fixing the time for the fair of 1881 and arranging the premium list. Members of the society and the general public are free to attend.

DOUBLY THANKFUL.—Hon. Chandler B. Watson, one of the republican presidential electors of Oregon, has special reasons for feeling thankful to-day. Besides that it is Thanksgiving Day, another [illegible] anniversary of his birth, and still further he has received the highest number of votes on the ticket—20,619.

[illegible] AT ASTORIA.—A social party will be given at [illegible] hall this (Thursday) evening by the members of the Astoria Olympic Club. The ball is in charge of the club, which has been recently organized [illegible] gentlemen constitute the invitation committee: F. P. Hicks, J. E. Thomas, B. Van Dusen, W. Fulton.

[illegible].—Gov. Thayer has commuted the sentence of [illegible] Hamilton, sent to the penitentiary from [illegible] county for 18 months, from November 26, for the crime of assault with intent to kill, on recommendation of the judge before whom he was tried and on petition of citizens of Wasco county.

[illegible].—The basement of the state capitol at Salem, is being drained at the present time by the construction of a first class sewer which will be utilized by the city authorities and run down through Court street, thus perfecting the system of drainage long required.

NOTARIAL APPOINTMENTS.—Gov. Thayer has recently appointed the following notaries public, J. J. [illegible], H. C. Raymond, Gaston, E. G. [illegible], [illegible] Addison A. Crane, Portland, H. Hurley, [illegible] E. Smith, of Lafayette.

TRUE BILLS.—True bills have been returned by the grand jury of the state circuit court against [illegible] Pearce, for robbery at the Richmond [illegible], and against J. W. Fletcher for the larceny of [illegible].

[illegible] TO-NIGHT.—In order that business [illegible] may have the privilege of spending thanksgiving evening with their families, there will be no [illegible] to-night at the First Congregational church.

ARRIVED AT ASTORIA.—A dispatch from Astoria this evening states that the steamship State of California arrived there at 6:30 o'clock, and that she passed in sea this morning at 6 o'clock.

[illegible] SERVICES.—There will be no services in Hall [illegible] church at 11:30 o'clock to-day, as was first [illegible] announced. Prayer and praise service at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

OFFICE HOURS.—The following will be the office hours of the Western Union Telegraph office to-day. 8 to 10 A. M., 4 P. M. to 6 P. M.

SCHOOLS SUSPENDED.—Public schools of this city were dismissed yesterday afternoon until next Monday morning.

One finds it very hard to learn late in life that the hitherto unsuspected primrose is "a corollifloral dicotyledonous exogen with a monopetalous corolla and a central placenta." Yet the writer of a new class book of botany tells us that it is so.

THE MATINEE.

For the special accommodation of ladies and children a matinee will be given at New Market theater this afternoon. "H. M. S. Pinafore" will be produced for the last time by the company. The cast will be very strong, and the presentation cannot fail to be unusually attractive. Mr. Kinross has been engaged specially to personate the character of "Capt. Corcoran," a part for which he is admirably adapted. Little Dot Revey has also engaged to take the part of "The Midshipmite." On this occasion an overflowing house may be expected. Mothers should not fail to bring their little folks out and see "Pinafore," as it will be the last opportunity. Popular prices have been adopted—seventy five cents for reserved seats, fifty cents admission, and twenty-five cents gallery. Reserve your seats, for there is certain to be a jam.

THE FAIR.

The attendance at the Catholic fair last evening was larger than on either of the preceding evenings. The general interest seems constantly to be increasing, which promises well for the financial interest of the fair. The young ladies were more vigorous than usual in their efforts to secure chances for the many articles to be raffled, and a liberal harvest of quarters, halves and dollars was reaped. The total receipts for the evening were encouragingly large, and will doubtless stimulate the ladies to make more strenuous efforts for the remaining nights. A splendid hot Thanksgiving dinner will be served to-day which will be well worth the price asked. This evening the fair will be open and the public is cordially invited to visit Leonard's hall.

NEW BOOKS.

The following new books have just been received and added to the Portland Library:

In returning thanks to-day let us try and be thankful for every favor and blessing bestowed upon us for the past year, for instance, a bountiful harvest, good health and contentment around us, reasonably cheap freights and fares, and last but not least let us not in our orisons forget Woods the hatter. The days for high prices and old styles in hats in Portland is a thing of the past. Woods has brought the price of fine hats and new styles within the reach of all; hence let us be thankful and in our prayers be Woods the hatter remembered.

THE WALLOWA VALLEY

The Purpose of the O. R. and N. Co. to Bring this Valley within Reach of Navigation.

The beautiful and fertile Wallowa valley, for so many years the home of Chief Joseph and his band of dusky braves, which is located in the eastern portion of Eastern Oregon in Union county is measurably cut off from communication with other portions of this state. This valley probably contains about 300 inhabitants, whose chief occupation is stockraising. The soil is very rich and well adapted to wheat growing. As yet very little surplus grain has been raised, owing to the remote situation of that section, and the great difficulty of transportation.

Communication is effected now only by way of La Grande or Walla Walla. Those routes, if such they can be called, are long and almost impracticable, and the obstacles to transportation have been and still are the most serious drawback to the rapid increase of population and the agricultural development of the valley.

The center of the Wallowa valley is about forty miles from Snake river. From Lewiston, the present head of navigation, to the mouth of the Imnaha, is about fifty miles. For a portion of the year boats can easily and safely reach the mouth of that stream. The Imnaha leads from the northern and middle portions of the valley down to the Snake. A good wagon road, it is thought, can be opened along the former stream which will furnish a direct and cheap outlet to a point connecting with navigation.

It is the purpose of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company to run steamers as far up the Snake as the mouth of the Imnaha or, if necessary, to Salmon during boating stage, provided such a route proves practicable. Mr. John P. Vollmer, the agent for the O. R. & N. Company at Lewiston, is at present in the city. Among other business with the company Mr. Vollmer comes in the interest of the project. On his return to Lewiston he will send some experienced person down to Wallowa valley, who will travel all over it and make a personal examination of the resources of that section, and ascertain if the route proposed is a feasible one. After making a thorough inspection of the country he will report to the company at Lewiston.

The proposed route is believed to be a practicable one—one that can be opened without much difficulty and with comparatively little cost. The O. R. & N. Co., with its accustomed energy, is pushing its line of communication as rapidly as possible, and affording transportation facilities to new and as yet almost undeveloped regions of Eastern Oregon. The project to bring Wallowa valley within easy and direct reach of navigation is certainly one of great commercial importance to that section. Should the plan be consummated it promises to be one of the most potent agencies which will develop that rich and productive region.

This Officer is Ordered to Report at Washington—Probabilities of his Not Returning—Regrets Expressed by the Officers and Soldiers at his Departure.

Gen. O. O. Howard, commander of the department of the Columbia, has received a telegram from Washington ordering him to report there at once. [illegible] by the officers and soldiers [illegible] [illegible] general [illegible].

[illegible] of the call to Washington at this time may [illegible] future. It may mean a change [illegible] possibly an order to West Point [illegible] the press dispatches [illegible] may signify some other [illegible] At all events the general impression [illegible] at Vancouver that Gen. Howard will not return.

During Sunday and Monday nights Gen. Howard was busily dictating the closing chapters of his translation of the great French patriot, scholar and Christian statesman, Count de Gasparin, who is the author of some thirty volumes which Gen. Howard intends to translate before he dies. Count de Gasparin corresponded with President Lincoln during the late civil war, and [illegible] advice of others [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] the general was busy in passing and signing [illegible] papers [illegible] and [illegible] receiving visitors from the officers of the garrison and their families, who came to pay their respects. Most of those who called expressed with the belief that the order [illegible] to Washington [illegible].

After a grand band [illegible] Gen. Morrow [illegible] expressing in a [illegible] pleasant and felicitous style what he regarded [illegible] the general feeling of esteem and friendship of every officer and private of his regiment for Gen. Howard. Others followed Gen. Morrow, and endorsing heartily the sentiments expressed by him.

Gen. Howard responded briefly in which he not only reciprocated the warm expressions of personal regard, but recalled the services of the regiment (the gallant 21st Infantry) during the several Indian campaigns, also at the ordinary posts of duty, a service more than usually arduous and certainly well performed. He also complimented the regiments upon the [illegible] of the Fraternal System which unites firmness with kindness in matters of discipline and is in happy contrast with the severity usually called Martinetism. The general stated he had always believed that the soldiers should be cherished and cared for as occupying an honorable and honored position among men. He respects the soldier who respects himself.

After a very pleasant social entertainment during which the 21st Infantry band discoursed some excellent music, the party separated, expressing the hope that they might be reunited before long in some eastern department.

CARD OF THANKS.

The Sisters of Charity of the House of Providence in Vancouver, tender their most heartfelt thanks to Almighty God and the charitable citizens of our flourishing city, who so generously have contributed to procure the splendid and gratifying success that attended their annual fair. About $1300 have been netted and will go entirely to the support of the 80 poor orphan children actually at the Sisters' Orphanage.

The merchants of Portland deserve a particular tribute of gratitude for the generous donation of useful and beautiful articles which enriched the fair. Also the members of the 21st Infantry band who generously volunteered, under the permission of their charitable and large hearted Commander General H. A. Morrow, to supply the sweetest strains of choicest music to enliven and enhance the social gathering during the three nights that it was in progress.

In a word, to all our benefactors we say a simple but hearty "thank you," and "may God bless you." Yes! He will bless those generous hearts! He, who leaves not "a cup of cold water without recompense," will certainly not forget him who feeds and clothes the orphan, and He will not resist the supplications of the 80 poor little waifs kneeling down in prayer for the temporal and spiritual welfare of those interested in their care.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 25, 1880.

A STAGE DRIVER'S STORY.

Fourteen years ago I drove from Danbury to Littleton, a distance of forty-two miles, and as I had to await the arrival of two or three coaches, and as I did not start until after dinner, I very often had a good distance to drive after dark. It was in the dead of winter, and the season had been a rough one. A great deal of snow had fallen, and the drifts were plenty and deep. The mail that I carried was not due at Littleton by contract until 1 o'clock in the morning, but that winter the postmaster was obliged to sit up a little later than that hour for me.

One day in January, when I drove up with my mail at Danbury, the postmaster called me into his office.

"Here," said he, with an important, serious look, "there's some pretty heavy money packages in that bag," and he pointed to it as he spoke. He said the money was from Boston to some land agent near the Canada line. Then he asked me if I had any passengers that were going through to Littleton. I told him I did not know. "But suppose I have not?" says I.

"Why," said he, "the agent of the lower route came in to-day, and he said there were two suspicious looking characters on the stage that came in last night, and he suspects that they had an eye on this mail, so it will stand you in hand to be a little careful this evening."

He said the agent had described one of them as a short, thick-set fellow, about forty years of age, with long hair, and a thick, heavy clump of beard under his chin, but none on the side of his face. He did not know anything about the other. I told him I guessed there wasn't much danger.

"Oh, no; not if you have got passengers all the way through; but I only told you this so that you might look out for your mail, and also keep a sharp look out when you change the horses."

I answered that I should do so, and then took the bag under my arm and left the office. I stowed the mail away under my seat a little more careful than usual, placing it so I could put my feet against it, but I found that I did not feel any concern. It was past 1 when we started, and I had four passengers, two of whom only rode to my first stopping place. I reached Gowan's mill at dark, when we stopped for supper, and where my other two passengers concluded to stop for the night.

About 6 o'clock in the evening I left Gowan's mill alone, having two horses and a pung. I had seventeen miles to go, and a hard seventeen miles it was, too. The night was quite clear, but the wind was sharp and cold, the loose snow flying in every direction, while the drifts were deep and closely packed. It was slow and tedious work, and my horses soon became leg-weary and restive. At the distance of six miles I came to a settlement called Bull's Corner, where I took fresh horses. I'd been two hours going that distance. As I was going to start a man came up and asked if I was going through to Littleton. I told him I should go through if the thing could possibly be done. He said he was anxious to go, and, as he had no baggage, I told him to jump in and make himself comfortable as possible. I was gathering up my lines, when the hostler came up and asked me if I knew one of my horses had cut himself badly. I jumped out and found that one of the animals had got a deep cork cut on the off foot. I gave such directions as I considered necessary, and was about to turn away when the hostler remarked that he thought I came alone. I told him I did.

"Then where did you get that passenger?" said he.

"He just got in," I answered.

"Got in from where?"

"I don't know."

"Well, now," said the hostler, "that's kind of curious. There ain't been no such man at the house, and I know there ain't been none at the neighbors."

"Let's have a look at his face," said I. "We can get that much at any rate. Do you go back with me, and when I get into the pung, just hold the lantern so that the light will shine into his face."

He did as I wished, and, as I stepped into the pung, I got fair views of such portions of my passenger's face as were not muffled up. I saw a short, thick frame; full, hard features; and I could almost see that there was a heavy beard under the chin. I thought of the man whom the postmaster had described to me, but I did not think seriously upon it until I had started. Perhaps I had gone half a mile when I noticed the mail bag wasn't in its right place under my feet.

"Hello!" says I, holding up my horses a little, "where's my mail?"

My passenger sat on the seat behind me, and I turned toward him.

"Here is a bag of some kind that slipped back under my feet," he said, giving it a kick, as though he would shove it forward.

Just at this moment my horses lumbered into a deep snow drift, and I was forced to get out and tread down the snow in front of them and lead them through it.

This took me all of fifteen minutes, and when I got in again I pulled the mail bag forward and got my feet upon it. As I was doing this I saw the man taking something from his lap beneath the buffalo, and put it in his breast pocket. This I thought was a pistol. I caught a gleam of a barrel in the starlight, and when I had time to reflect I knew I could not be mistaken.

About this time I began to think somewhat seriously. From what I heard and saw I soon made up my mind that the individual behind me not only wanted to rob me of my mail, but was prepared to rob me of my life. If I resisted him he would shoot me, and perhaps he meant to perform that delectable operation at any rate. While I was pondering, the horses plunged into another snow-drift, and I was forced to get out and tread down the snow before them. I asked my passenger if he would not help me, but he didn't feel very well, and wouldn't try, so I worked all alone, and was all of a quarter of an hour getting my team through the drifts.

When I got into the sleigh again I began to feel for the mail bag with my feet. I found it where I had left it; but when I endeavored to withdraw my foot, discovered it had become fast in something. I thought it was the buffalo, and tried to kick it clear; but the more I kicked, the more closely it held. I reached down my hand, and, after feeling about a few moments, I found that my foot was in the bag. I felt again, and found my hand in among the packages of letters and papers. I ran my fingers over the edges of the opening, and became assured the stout leather had been cut with a knife.

Here was a discovery. I began to wish I had taken a little more forethought before leaving Danbury; but as I knew making such wishes was only a waste of time, I quickly gave it up, and began to consider what I had better do under existing circumstances. I wasn't long in making up my mind upon a few essential points. First, the man behind me was a villain; second, he had cut open the mail bag and robbed it of some valuable matter—he must have known the money letters by their size and shape; third, he meant to leave the stage on the first opportunity; and fourthly, he was prepared to shoot me if I attempted to arrest or detain him.

I resolved these things in my mind, and pretty soon thought of a course to pursue. I knew that to get my hands safely upon the rascal I must take him wholly unawares, and this I could not do while he was behind me, for his eyes were upon me all the time, so I must resort to stratagem. Only a little distance ahead was a house and an old farmer named Longee lived there; and directly before it a huge snow bank stretched across the road, through which tracks had been cleared with shovels.

As we approached the cot I saw a light in the front room, as I felt confident I should, for the man generally sat up until the stage went by. I drove on, and when nearly opposite the dwelling stood up, as I frequently did when approaching difficult places. I saw the snowbank and could distinguish the deep cut which had been shoveled through it; I urged my horses to a good speed and when near the bank forced them into it. One of the runners mounted the ridge of the bank, after which the other ran into the cut, thus throwing the sleigh over as quick as though lightning had struck it. My passenger had not calculated on any such movement and wasn't prepared for it; and I had calculated and was prepared.

He rolled out in the deep snow with a heavy buffalo robe around him, while I alighted directly on top of him. I punched his head into the snow and sung out for old Longee. I did not have to call the second time, for the farmer had come to the window to see me pass, and as soon as he saw my sleigh overturned he had lighted his lantern and hurried out.

"What's to pay?" asked the old man as he came out.

"Lead the horses into the track, and then come here," I said.

As I spoke, I partially loosened my hold upon the villain's throat, and he drew a pistol from his bosom; but I saw it in good season, and jammed his head into the snow again, and got it away from him.

By this time Longee had led the horses out and came back, and I explained the matter to him in as few words as possible.

We had hauled the rascal out into the road, and upon examination we found about twenty packages of letters which he had stolen from the mail bag and stowed away in his pockets.

He swore, threatened and prayed, but we paid no attention to his blarney.

Longee got some stout cord, and when we had securely bound the villain we tumbled him into the pung. I then asked the old man if he would accompany me to Littleton, and he said "of course I will."

So he got his overcoat and muffler, and ere long we started on.

I reached the end of my route with my mail all safe, though not as snug as it might have been, and my mail-bags a little worse for the trick that had been played on them. However the mail robber was secure, and within a week he was identified by some officers from Concord as an old offender, and I am rather inclined to the opinion that he is in the state prison at the present time. At any rate he was there the last time I heard of him.

That is the only time I ever had any mail trouble, and I think, under all circumstances, I came out of it pretty well.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Money active, 2@6; governments steady; stocks closed strong and buoyant; Western Union 90⅞; Erie, 47⅜.

In the local money market there is a reasonable degree of activity with no unusual demand from any direction. The supply of available funds is not changed and with the fact kept in view that there is no immediate prospect of an advance in prices of grain on this coast sufficient to induce a large and general movement of wheat, we may reasonably expect that the very considerable sums held here for investment will in part be soon seeking employment in other directions. Rates on loans seldom change in this market and the only fluctuations which are observable, is that at one time, accommodations are difficult to obtain at 10@12 per cent. and at others all offers to take money on good security are taken up with great readiness.

In the wheat market there is rather less excitement to-day than on preceding days of the week, but the advance attained is firmly held, and fair to good shipping lots of wheat command $1 60 per cental.

An eastern journal which is nearly always correct in its estimates concerning the crops, says that "a few weeks since there was a very generally accepted opinion that the world's cereal crop of 1880 would be largely in excess of that for years previous, and that the out turn of the harvest in the United States was so vast that it would be fully for American farmers to sow anything like the number of acres to wheat for the crop of 1881 that was planted in '79-80. But a few journals, careful in statement, as soon as advices came to hand which could be relied upon, stated that the harvests would fall below popular belief, and that no apprehension need be felt that wheat in America would be ruinously cheap. Facts are stubborn things, and cannot be pushed aside, and while the estimates given have been fully verified, it would be gratifying to know that the calculations were not so fully realized, for if the crop of American wheat in 1880 were 25,000,000 bushels more than it really is, the additional surplus would be sought after. Throughout the northwest, where it was predicted that the crop would be simply immense, former figures have been reduced until they at present look anything but alarming to producers.

In the local market for domestic products, this week, outside of breadstuffs, the movement has been of fair volume, and the quotations given fairly sustained. In provisions there is more activity, and buyers having orders for placing all they can secure are free operators at full rates. Eggs have been selling at 40 cents per dozen, but immediately after Thanksgiving are expected to decline, perhaps, to 30 cents.

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast, IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of illness, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

THE GENUINE

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
